

CONTEMPORARY LATIN AMERICAN LITERATURE

The course offers an overview of the most important trends in the contemporary literature of Hispanic America, with special emphasis on the key thematic fields and the dominant modes of expression in poetry, prose, theater and essays, as well as the literary paradigm changes under the influence of post-colonialism, providing also an insight into the latest theoretical, critical and creative aspirations in the field of transcultural, interdisciplinary and multimedia permeation.